SEEKING NEW OR OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT:
Ethics Commission Information Sheet # 4

I. Introduction

The Ohio Ethics Law and related statutes are found in Ohio Revised Code (R.C.) Chapter 102. and Sections 2921.42 and 2921.43. These laws generally prohibit public officials and employees from misusing their official positions for their own personal benefit or the benefit of their family members or business associates.

The Ethics Law applies to all people who serve as officials and employees for public agencies in Ohio. “Public agencies” include state departments, boards, and commissions, counties, cities, villages, townships, school districts, public colleges and universities, public libraries, port authorities, and all other public entities.

The Ohio Ethics Commission was created to administer, interpret, and assist in the enforcement of the Ethics Law for all officials in the state, except members and employees of the General Assembly and judicial officers and employees.1 In this information sheet, the word “official” includes any person who serves a public agency, whether elected, appointed, or employed.

II. Purpose of this Information Sheet

The Ethics Commission prepared this information sheet to explain how the Law applies when an official is searching for a new job or outside employment. These restrictions apply regardless of whether the official is seeking a job with a private corporation, a non-profit organization, or another public agency.

Any official who is seeking new employment should also read the Commission’s revolving door information sheet (Information Sheet # 5), discussing limitations on the official in a new job.

Any official who is seeking outside employment should also read Ohio Ethics Commission Advisory Opinion No. 96-004, the Commission’s advisory opinion on outside employment. The opinion will explain limits on the official’s activities regarding outside employment.

III. Summary of the Law

The Ohio Ethics Law and related statutes prohibit public officials from soliciting or using their public positions to get a job from any person that is:

- Regulated by their public agency;
- Doing or seeking to do business with their public agency; or
- Interested in matters before their public agency.

IV. Seeking Employment from Related Parties

R.C. 102.03(D) and (E) prohibit public officials from soliciting or using their positions to get a job from any person that is regulated by, doing business or seeking to do business with, or interested in matters before the public agency they serve.2
A person is “seeking employment” if he or she is responding to a specific job advertisement or posting, or sending resumes, making telephone calls, sending e-mails, or taking any other action to inquire about the availability of an employment position.

V. Withdrawal

There is an exception from this prohibition if the official can and does withdraw completely from any matter involving the party from whom he or she is seeking or has accepted employment.3

If the official is normally required to participate in a matter affecting the party, the public agency must approve his or her withdrawal.4 An official cannot effectively withdraw from a matter by simply refusing to perform assigned job duties. It must be clear that the withdrawal will not impede the official’s ability to perform those job duties.

In order to effectively withdraw from a matter, the official must inform his or her supervisor of the withdrawal. The supervisor must then either personally handle the matter or reassign the matter to another official or employee. If the matter is reassigned, the person to whom it is reassigned must report to someone who is a superior to, or on the same level as, the official who has withdrawn.5 The official cannot withdraw from a matter by delegating it to a subordinate employee.

For example, during a job search, an official whose job involves making recommendations about equipment purchases is prohibited from making recommendations about a private firm from whom he or she is seeking a job.6 Once the official has accepted a job offer from a private company or another public agency, the official is prohibited from participating in matters affecting the new employer during his or her remaining public employment.7

VI. Board Member Seeking Job with Board

The Ethics Law also prohibits board members from seeking employment with the board they serve. This restriction applies to both elected and appointed board members. For example, a city council member is prohibited from seeking employment with the city. Also, a member of a state commission is prohibited from seeking employment with the commission.

For more information about these restrictions, please read the Commission’s Information Sheet #6 on board member’s seeking employment with their own boards.

VII. Other Considerations

Officials who are considering seeking employment with another public agency, or with a private organization or company, should ask their supervisors, or legal counsel for the public agency they serve, whether the agency has any additional policies or rules regarding job-seeking. (A public agency cannot create a policy or rule that is less restrictive than the prohibitions described above. However, an agency may have a policy or rule that is more restrictive than the Ethics Law.)

Any official who is seeking new employment should also read the Commission’s Information Sheet #5 on revolving door. The restrictions discussed in that information sheet will limit the official’s activities in a new job.

VIII. Penalties

The Ethics Law and related statutes are criminal laws. Most of the ethics laws discussed in this information sheet (R.C. 102.03(D) and (E)) are first-degree misdemeanors, with a maximum penalty of six months in prison and/or a $1000 fine.
IX. Conclusion

Please contact the Ethics Commission if you have questions about this information sheet or the Ohio Ethics Laws. This information sheet is not an advisory opinion, and is not intended to provide advice on specific facts.
